Having considered the motion for a preliminary injunction filed by plaintiffs adidas America, Inc., adidas AG, and adidas International Marketing B.V. (collectively, “adidas”), together with all materials and argument submitted in support of and in opposition to this motion, the Court finds that adidas has demonstrated a combination of probable success on the merits and the possibility of irreparable injury, rendering a preliminary injunction appropriate.

Now, therefore, it is hereby ORDERED and ADJUDGED that:

1. adidas’s Motion for Preliminary Injunction (ECF 4) is GRANTED;
2. Defendant Puma North America, Inc. (“Puma”) and all of its agents, officers, employees, representatives, successors, assigns, attorneys, and all other persons acting for, with, by, through or under authority from Puma, or in concert or participation with Puma, be enjoined temporarily from advertising, selling, or distributing the Evopower Vigor Camo soccer cleat or any other footwear bearing stripes in a manner that is confusingly similar to adidas’s Three-Stripe Mark; and
3. The foregoing preliminary injunction shall be in full force and effect until such time as this Court has entered a final judgment on the merits of all claims in this case, or until such time as this Court enters a further Order lifting or modifying the preliminary injunction granted hereby.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

DATED this _____ day of _____, 2017.
